Remembering “Papa”

For better or for worse, whether you revere him as an exemplar of American fiction or criticize him for being a man’s man, Ernest Hemingway has forever etched himself into the American literary canon. If the debate over Hemingway’s literary worthiness leaves you tired and bored, you can escape to a place where “Papa”—as he was so lovingly known near the end of his life—is remembered more like an old friend than a literary giant: Key West, Florida.

From July 20–23, in honor of the writer’s birthday on July 21, Sloppy Joe’s Bar on Duval Street in Key West holds its annual Hemingway Look-Alike Contest. Key West held a special allure for Hemingway. Its world-class deep-sea fishing provided an outlet for Hemingway’s masculine bravado. He loved nothing more than to fish in the mornings, write in the afternoons, and head over to Sloppy Joe’s in the evenings.

The original Sloppy Joe’s was not located in Key West but in Havana, Cuba, another one of Hemingway’s favorite places (especially during the Prohibition era). Havana bar owner Jose “Joe” Garcia was known to leave the floor of his bar “sloppy” with melted ice from seafood and cold drinks. Hemingway and other patrons teasingly referred to his bar as Sloppy Joe’s. Hemingway often visited the Havana haunt with his friend, bartender Joe Russell. Once Prohibition was lifted in America, Russell opened his own bar in Key West, a bar that would eventually “borrow” the name Sloppy Joe’s and become Hemingway’s favorite watering hole.

So, what better place to remember Hemingway than at his favorite watering hole in his favorite locale? Each year, the Hemingway Look-Alike Society gathers dozens of its best Hemingways to vie for the honor of becoming that year’s beloved “Papa.” And lucky for these Hemingways, they don’t have to box each other or run with the bulls in Pamplona, two of Papa’s favorite pastimes.

Baked Potato Bar Fundraiser

Thank you to the families and to the volunteers for all the help and support to make this such a fun event and for keeping things running smoothly.

Sign in/Sign Out sheet

Just a friendly reminder, when taking your loved one out of the building, to sign them out, and back in when they return. And let a staff member know as well. This helps us make sure everyone is safe and accounted for. Sign in/out sheet is in the entry way. Thank you!

Friendship

These two lovely ladies quickly became friends after meeting. We always enjoy seeing the friendships that develop with residents and staff and how much joy it brings.

July Resident of the Month Scott Reum

Well, it was unanimous! Each staff member who voted had chosen Scott to be our July resident of the month. He is quite the jokester making us all laugh often. He's always nice to everyone, has good manners always thanking the kitchen staff for each meal. He enjoys activities encouraging other residents to participate as well. Congratulations Scott.

Bowling Champion

In a very close game, Ruth came out victorious, winning the trophy. Congratulations and well done

Beach Day at Fountain View

A beach themed day with a picnic style lunch, games, and some music therapy with Melissa

Tie Dye Party

The residents enjoyed the first tie dye party so much that we decided to do it again in June.

June Birthday Party

We celebrated our only June birthday making it a special day.

Happy Birthday Jane

Celebrating Father's Day

The residents had manicotti for lunch along with a homemade rhubarb crisp for dessert. Later in the afternoon, the guys received a father's day balloon and were invited to the dining room for pie and coffee. A few of the ladies wished to join as well. One of our staff members also surprised them with a cake. Was a very special day.
